If (and that's a big IF) he makes it it's going to be as a 3 true outcomes player. That's not a top 100 guy.

How does a guy slash .355/.410/.807, have more walks than strikeouts, steals 104 bases, and doesn't make the top 100? (was tops in the League in batting by more than 50 points)

Because there are concerns about his defence and his bottom of the scale power. I because there are concerns about his defense and his bottom of the scale power. I love Chandler Simpson as a prospect but he is a pretty unique prospect.

Would you compare Rhett Lowder to a Mike Leake type of pitcher? Middle of the rotation, nothing overpowering and very crafty?

Lazaro Montes at 97 is actually insane.

Ranking a guy this low with no explanation is just wild.

any reason as to why alex freeland is above zyhir hope and josue de paula? because im assuming you guys don't view freeland as a better prospect than those 2. also, is freeland being underestimated as a prospect or is he just about right, which is average? hes described to have an "excellent bat speed" from baseball america's scouting report of him, so i assume hitters with excellent bat speed means real power potential. but i could be very wrong so would love to hear it from you guys.

another question, how close is joendry, emil and especially Eduardo Quintero to be in the top 100?

Travis Bazzana listed at 5'9 170 has to be a typo. I've seen him listed 6ft 190-200 almost everywhere

Is Drew Thorpe eligible for this list? I saw him on the list of 204 that received votes. He had 44 innings pitched last year, which is less than the 50 inning rule for ROY if I'm not mistaken. Wondering where he would land. I think he was top 50 before making his MLB debut. He was on the MLB active roster for about 50 days though, not sure if BA goes by the 45 day rule?

I was surprised to see Xavier Isaac down in the 80's after the season he put together making it to AA and the amount of hype he was creating. Was it the swing and miss components that dropped him? I do understand 145 K's is a bit absurd in 2024.

Yes his strikeout rate has to improve for him to be a viable big leaguer. It's very possible he will but it is a concern.

Ineligible because he met the "foreign professional" standard. Sasaki is eligible because he was ineligible to sign a MLB deal.

As a 50/High he wouldn't crack the Top 100. There are no 50/High players on the 100.

3? Chandler at 7 Griffin at 57 and Harrington. BA doesn't like Termarr since he's been inconsistent. They might have 6 in the top 150? Termarr, Yerkes, Ashcraft, Burrows, and inconsistent. They might have 6 in the top 150? Terrence Yorke Ashcroft Burrows and Barco all fall around there. Graduating Skenes Jones Gonzales Davis Endy doesn't help not that any of this matters a ton.
